Philosophy

Royal Roads University encourages student engagement in the life of the institution. Students are the foundation of the University community, and their learning and development outside of the classroom is an important part of the university experience.

Involved students are more likely to persist to degree completion and to be successful in reaching their academic and personal goals.

The University recognizes that clear definition of roles and responsibilities of the University and the student organizations it formally recognizes is necessary for efficient administration and the legal protection all parties.

Guidelines
